

How many people were killed in Haiti's Cite Soleil area?

Around 180 people were killed over the weekend in Haiti's Cite Soleil area, Haiti's prime minister's office said on Monday, after attacks that an NGO said were ordered by a gang leader who suspected his child had been made ill using witchcraft.

Does Haiti need international security support?

Haitian authorities had in 2022 requested international security support for local police, but the mission - based on voluntary contributions - that the United Nations approved in 2023 has only partially deployed and is severely under-resourced.

Should the United Nations take over Haiti's security mission?

With violence in Haiti surging, the United States has asked the United Nations to take over the security mission and turn it into an official peacekeeping operation. The change would allow for a steady supply of funding, personnel and equipment. Russia and China, which have veto power at the U.N. Security Council, have objected to the proposal.
